Recently there have been scores of books written about how to be happy. Many contain useful and helpful advice, missing only the central point: happiness is not actually the principle end of life.

The philosopher Robert Nozick proposed an experiment years ago, the "experience machine." It would give a virtual experience of everything the person wanted so that it would all seem lifelike and ideal. Most people would reject such an existence.

Why? Because although we all want to be happy, happiness is not all we want. We want something deeper, richer, and harder than happiness alone.

This observation is ancient as Greek tragedy and new as modern literature. As the years have passed, Aldous Huxley’s novel “Brave New World” has grown in relevance. Remember the words of "The Savage" in his book, rejecting the SOMA drug that made everyone happy: "I don't want comfort. I want God. I want poetry, I want real danger, I want freedom, I want goodness. I want sin."

The story of Adam and Eve is the story of our lives. Growing up is filled with disillusion and pain alongside love and joy. In our better moments we recall that the difficulties of life are essential to savor its sweetness. No healthy person welcomes pain; no mature person tries always to escape it. The experience of sadness, the process of grieving – that too plays a role in the varied, colorful and sometimes dolorous pageant of life.

Psychologist Fritz Perls taught that 'the only way out is through.' You cannot shortcut experience. To live a full life is to live a life marked by all manner of contrary and powerful experiences. The Torah teaches us to "serve God with joy" but to get there we will have to make our way through disappointment, sorrow and struggle. In the Midrash Rabbi Johanan reminds us that the eye has a dark part and a light part, but one can only see through the dark part. Darkness grants insight and vision. Our task is not to seek happiness, but to reach out to one another, to deepen our souls, and to seek God.

As the summer passes and the new year comes closer let us recall this vital lesson of our souls.

Welcome
RABBI NICOLE GUZIK
Rabbi Brian Schuldenfrei, Rabbi Nicole Guzik and Executive Director Howard Lesner

On Thursday, May 21st, Rabbi Brian Schuldenfrei and Executive Director Howard Lesner surprised Rabbi Nicole Guzik as they flew to New York to attend her ordination and graduation from the Jewish Theological Seminary.

Both of them were there to celebrate with her and are thrilled as is the rest of the Sinai staff and community that she will be joining the Sinai family beginning July 1st!
Dear Sinai Temple,

The Torah has high expectations. We do too.

Torah expects its followers to abide by 48 different levels of commitment. Some of those include: engaging in unhurried reflection, being persistent in study, and learning in order to teach. We are required to engage with one another, discuss the modern relevance on Torah, and strive to transition from students to teachers of Torah. Wrestling, struggling, conversing, singing, and dancing with Torah shows commitment through learning, dancing, praying, discussing, and sharing. Every member of our minyan is involved—reading Torah, leading text study, opening a home for Shabbat lunch, teaching a song, or giving voice to an issue. We are reflective, persistent, and committed—This is Torah in the Round.

We are pleased to introduce new elements to our minyan:
1) Seviva (turning)— Contact me (nguzik@sinaitemple.org) to assist in the leadership and growth of our minyan. Make Torah in the Round a home where we explore ways to build a stronger community.
2) Ruach Shabbat (spirit of Shabbat)—Join us for Shabbat lunch! Mark July 18th on your calendar. After Torah in the Round, we will meet at Holmby Park for a picnic lunch. Bring your blanket and a kosher meal. We will provide the challah, grape juice, and music.
3) Sevivon (spinning top)—Open your home for a chance to learn together as a community. Once every six weeks we will meet in a congregant’s home, schmooze and study. Let me know if you would like to host and provide a more intimate atmosphere to learn about one another.

We are ready to commit to Torah—through reflection, persistence, and study. Are you?

Welcome to Torah in the Round!

Kol tuv,

Ira

SISTERHOOD
Lina Ahdoot and Lorraine Joffe, Co-Presidents

Dear Friends,

After three years under the capable leadership of Rachelle Marcus, our immediate past president, we are privileged to be the new Co-Presidents of Sinai Sisterhood—Lina Ahdoot and Lorraine Joffe. For the past seven years, we have served on the Executive Board and as ‘Z’Chavah chair (Lina Ahdoot) and Catering chair (Lorraine Joffe). We are excited to be in our new position and we look forward to working with everyone.

“Reconnect, Reflect and Rejoice: Strengthening our Inner Selves” is the theme for the third annual Sisterhood Retreat, October 23-25 at Camp Ramah in Ojai, California. Our spiritual leaders, Rabbi Nicole Guzik and Cantor Ari Brown will join us for this weekend. Also joining us as our scholar-in-residence will be Jody Myers. The retreat is designed so that everyone will have a chance to grow, relax, sing, laugh and learn in the beautiful surroundings of Camp Ramah in Ojai.

Our Sisterhood membership drive will begin this August and we encourage everyone to send in their applications and renewals as soon as possible. All paid-up Sisterhood members will be our guests for lunch at a date to be determined in October. Please join us and stay connected. We are planning some educational and entertaining activities for this coming year and would love to see you all there to support our synagogue, community and Israel.

The theme for this year’s campaign for Torah Fund is Le’avdah ul-shamrah – To Plant and Preserve. The Torah Fund Campaign is one of the most important programs in Sisterhood and raises money to help support future rabbis, cantors and educators attending the Ziegler School of Rabbinic Studies in Los Angeles, The Jewish Theological Seminary in New York and the Schechter Institute of Jewish Studies in Jerusalem. Your support insures the solid and healthy future of Conservative/Masorti Judaism. In appreciation of their generous support, donors of $180 or more will receive this year’s 5770 beautiful Torah Fund pin in the shape of a gold and silver leaf.

In anticipation of the High Holidays, Sisterhood has three annual fundraisers which we hope you will continue to support—our Jars of Honey Sale, our Book of High Holiday Greetings and the sale of personalized High Holiday cards. Rosh Hashanah/Yom Kippur are early this year so we will start advertising these fundraisers in the summer. Watch your mail for news and details about these programs. Also, please remember to support our Sisterhood Judaica Gift Shop and our Dairy Catering.

Let’s have a great year for Sisterhood and our Sinai community.

B’shalom,
Lina Ahdoot and Lorraine Joffe
