TOWARD A RENEWAL OF THE ZIONIST IDEA

The establishment of the State of Israel constitutes only a partial fulfillment of the original goals of Zionism. Zionism also aimed at renewing the Jewish people and propelling them to constitute a model society. Yet, Zionist discourse has, over the past decades, been stuck in a political mode and has become largely irrelevant even to many passionate supporters of Israel. How can we reinvigorate the Zionist conversation and awaken a vital ideology that can be a source of Jewish renewal while providing a meaningful focus to the Zionist project?

Join Rabbi Chaim Seidler-Feller in dialogue with David Suissa as they discuss their perceptions of Zionism today. Rabbi David Wolpe will be moderating the discussion.

FREE and open to the public. RSVP mandatory to park in the building.
