Why did Caleb, rather than Joshua, speak up then? The main cause for the panic that had taken hold of the Children of Israel was the prophecy of Eldad and Medad to the effect that Moses would die, to be succeeded by Joshua. Hearing this prediction, they could not imagine how, without the leadership of Moses, they would be able to conquer the giants and the great fortified cities of which the spies had told them. It was for this reason that Caleb "stilled" the frightened people by telling them that it would be an error to think that only Moses was able to perform miracles. On the contrary, he told them, they themselves, the Jewish people, possessed those qualities which made them worthy of miracles, so that actually, Moses himself derived his greatness only from their sanctity. ... Caleb, and not Joshua, had to be the one to tell them that. For had Joshua said it, the people, knowing the prophecy of Eldad and Medad, would have thought he was saying this only because he knew he would take the place of Moses and because he was eager for personal honor and glory. -- Meshekh Hakhmah
